10 Commandments for National Socialists

- 1) America is your Fatherland; love it above all and more in deeds than words.
- 2) America's enemies, internal and external, are your enemies; hate them with all your heart.
- 3) Every fellow countryman, even the lowliest, is part of America; love him as you love yourself.
- 4) Ask not what America can do for you, but what you can do for America. In doing so, America shall become great.
- 5) Be proud of America! You have a right to take pride in a Fatherland for which millions have given their lives.
- 6) Those who abuse America, in word or deed, abuse you and your deceased. Treat them as an enemy, for they made the first strike.
- 7) Repay like with like and then some. If you are denied your just rights, remember: you can only secure them again through your own political action.
- 8) Do not be a hooligan racist, but do not fear taking pride in your race and your people. Your ancestors made this country the envy of the world and you now bear the responsibility of continuing that legacy.
- 9) Live your life in such a way that one day you will not need to stand ashamed before a new America.
- 10) Have faith in the future; only thus will you win it.

Politics

Modern politics are nothing more than swindle and deception nowadays - a national socialist wants nothing to do with them. Trying to enter politics now is likened to a poor man trying to gain membership into a millionaire's club - and that is just what it is.<sup>1</sup> Fighting for our cause and awakening our fellow countrymen is all that matters now; we focus on it and pay no attention to the insanity of politics!

It would seem then that our mutual enemy, by whatever name you call him: The capitalist, the politicians, the corporations - has achieved what he wanted. He has assured then that the American people are not interested in politics. The American can slave away and work himself to death with no hope of attaining the life he works for - all the while the corrupt politicians make their politics for them.

I fail to see how participating in politics would free the laborer from this plight. Name one political party, liberal or conservative, that hasn't stuffed us full of empty promises and deceitful politics in the last 100 years! Name one that ever even had the slightest intention of fulfilling even a fraction of their so-called promises!

All parties have lied and cheated the people. Not one was honest or even tried to put into practice what they promised. They only knew their people during election time and even then only until they secured their vote. However, do America's political parties and the disappointment at their endless lies and rampant corruption need to be synonyms with despair of our future? If the parties are no good then let's leave them and go against them!

Oh, no! It is too late for that. We no longer have the faith or determination to proclaim our willingness to fight for America's very life - not under these conditions we are found with today.

You would do well to say "I" not "We". We have the courage, the faith, the determination and strength to do it. And you? How do you imagine the future - your future? For your country's future determines your future.

The Economy and Politics

There is one factor in which I still see a spark of hope - our economy. I believe the indestructible industriousness of the American people will triumph in the end. Work and the economy is what decides our fate. We must work more - both toward achieving our cause as well as boosting the economy. Less talking, more doing!

Very good! I suggest you go and preach to our 100 million unemployed<sup>2</sup> and preach to them, like some voice crying in the dark: "We must work more and do less talking!" Maybe then someone will show you the folly of your claim.

<sup>2</sup> As of 2015. This value includes the amount of people currently unemployed (9.7 million) as well as those "not in the labor force" (92 million) per the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The economy is what decides our fate! Look at America during the Great Depression or even today at our never-ending recession which our government cares more about downplaying than fixing. When the economy falters, the American people - especially the hard working laborers, factory workers and blue-collar employees - suffer severe hardships. Losing one's job, hunger, divorce - which then leads to losing one's own children in some cases - and the feeling of being discarded as a useless commodity are all symptoms of a sick economy. The economy is at the very heart of the physical and emotional well-being of the American people. The people believe in the economy and its ability to give them good lives.

What exactly is the economy if not a national life factor in direct interaction with politics? Name just one people in all of history that established or even maintained a productive economy without having a healthy, purposeful political system! And vice-versa, name just one people with a clear and instinctively confident system of politics which did not find a way, by means of these politics, to establish an economy that assured the continual existence of the people!

Your opinion is utter nonsense! It is of a kind such as only scoundrel bankers or the notoriously rich could possible suggest. The economy is not the life force of the people - politics are! Healthy politics create the necessary economy. A healthy economy without the firm foundation of a strong political system is completely unthinkable!

If the case was such that you claim it is, then it would be due to say your "politics" are something quite different from that which today's so-called American politicians produce. True politics result from the collective will of a unified nation. When is the last time a politician did anything for his people?

Politics may be defined as responsible activity in the service of the people. Its goal - creating for these people such conditions as enable them to preserve and defend their existence, as well as their cultural identity, in this harsh world. To see that they multiply, and to ensure liberty and a living for themselves and their descendants.

This is what our politics seeks to do. We hope that the older among our fellow countrymen see the wisdom in this belief and that the young will rally around it with a fervor that only the youth can muster.

On Youth Involvement in Politics

So that is the political idea you want to practice with your movement? With youth who have barely got a whiff of real life? With riots and insurrections? With street fighting and intimidation of anyone who thinks differently than you? With this unscrupulous fight against the government and its national foundation?

Yes indeed! We want to practice these politics because no one else does. Neither the experienced mature leaders of the people, who can't complain enough about us right-wing "extremists" and "Nazis" - we have heard it all - nor the intellectuals of education or the timid, sickly, pale stay-at-home would-be politicians! Neither the government nor those who make its "politics".

But, you must permit me some minor corrections: if we practice our politics with the "greenhorns" - the youth or, better yet, American Youth - then we do so in the proud and happy awareness that America's youth have found the path leading out of the poison of our present times and to the new USA! Whether or not this youth has got little more than a whiff of life is of no matter to us. Certainly, you have seen much of life but I know eighteen-year-olds in our movement who could put you to shame at every turn. Our politics are not based on riots, but when riots are necessary, we are not so cowardly as to avoid them. The average citizen scolds against riots until he is hoarse, perhaps because no one bothers to riot for his nation anymore. We resort to intimidation wherever we ourselves are met up with it.

In a nation that prides itself of its right to free speech, our speech has been labeled as "racist" and thus made taboo, if not outright illegal. Speaking out against our government - No, corporate pawns and traitors, for they are not my government as I did not vote for them and I suspect a majority of my fellow countrymen did not either - gets us arrested and blacklisted. Being a national socialist gets us fired, attacked and our rights denied. God forbid a man proud enough to defend his country has a family - more than once he has lost them because his wife feared a word - racist. We cannot run to the police for they often condone attacking us. We do not get the luxury of trembling behind the curtains like a coward waiting for the law to protect our rights for, as far as they are concerned, national socialists have none. We will not submissively wait for whatever fate has decreed for us. Instead, we put ourselves in harm's way and meet intimidation head-on. That is when we turn the verbal opposition to this ruling of the 99% by the 1% into practice!

The Class Struggle

The middle class is the backbone by which our nation has the ability to stand up tall and proud. Destruction of the American middle-class will surely mean the destruction of America. No more can those who put their blood, sweat and tears into this nation of ours allow themselves and their country to continue suffering at the hands of those who sold their country and its people for their insatiable greed. The middle class built this country and this country was built around the dream of everyone's right to a middle class life. As long as we condone a system that allows a few to have inconceivable wealth when so many more live in the streets, the class struggle will be a real and pressing danger to America and her people.

That means you have become a party supporting the class struggle! You call yourself a laborer's party - that was the first step. You then called yourself socialist - that was the second. Now? You're talking about an entirely middle-class nation. That is the third and final step! To me, it seems you are preaching communism!

There is truly nothing more hypocritical than a well-fed citizen protesting against the idea of class warfare in regard to the working class.

You yourself made it through the winter all snug and comfortable. Your very position is provocative of class struggle. What gives you the right to put yourself on such a high pedestal, all swelled with the pride of national responsibility, against the struggle of the working class? For the last seventy years, has the middle class been anything other than a single class that claims membership of nearly all Americans? And has this class not, out of necessity as history has shown time and again, itself given rise to the working class concept of class struggle? Are you not, right now this very instant, exploiting the people's despair in their government and their outlook in order to re-establish the same old reactionary "pro" middle-class nonsense as before?

Aren't you well-fed citizens ashamed to fight against the class struggle of the undernourished, hollow-cheeked, unemployed working class?

So yes, we call ourselves a worker's party. That is the first step as you said, the first step away from this class-conscious society. We call ourselves a worker's party because we want to make work available to all of our fellow countrymen. We want this because to us, work is the driving force of history. Work means more to us than possessions, frivolous education, petty class distinctions and the status-quo do! That is why we call ourselves a Worker's party!

And yes - we call ourselves socialist. That is the second step - the second step away from our self-destructive Capitalism. We call ourselves socialist in protest against the lie of society's pity for the middle class. We don't want pity and we don't want social-mindedness. We do not care one bit for that which you call "social welfare legislation". That is hardly enough to exist on, little-lone live on!

We want the rights to which nature and the law entitle us. We want our full share of what the Divine gave us, as well as the returns from our physical and mental labors which we so rightfully deserve. That is socialism!

Finally, we speak of a middle-class one class nation. Why? Because this majority middle-class nation has already turned into a complete one-class nation. We speak of this because this is a system under which value is no longer placed on achievement and will, but rather only on frivolous education in fields such as "gender studies" or "LGBT studies" and wealth are now the highest pillars of achievement in our country. While this is a problem in and of itself, it is worsened by the ever-growing wealth gap which, to me, seems to obey the idea that the harder you work, the less you have to show for it. We speak of a middle-class nation because this system has taken a nation's greatest good - the love of the nation and its people - and has perverted it into a venal love of possessions, thereby excluding 150 million American-feeling and American-thinking workers.

What the middle class wanted is irrelevant. What it achieved it what is important. If the people want a strong America, what did they achieve to attain this goal? So far, it would seem they achieved a nation of slaves who have less hope with each passing generation of providing good lives for themselves and their children. Now, we have a nation that indoctrinates children into materialism, the sexualization of anything that can be sold, and a culture that promotes - and legalizes - drug use. As if this all wasn't bad enough, we have the sacrificial altar of "equality" that demands our culture accept feminism, homosexuality, transgenderism, multiculturalism, and a plethora of other asocial elements that the majority of our nation does not want and which many other countries outright ban!<sup>3</sup>

<sup>3</sup> As of 2015, 78 of the world's 196 countries ban LGBT acts with several more prohibiting certain aspects of the LGBT culture. For example, a 2013 poll in Russia showed that 85% of its population did not agree with same-sex marriage. A law prohibiting "any

All of that is the sad truth. We protest against the destruction of the middle class. Our entire movement is one grand protest against the sacrifice of our people and culture for the sake of unhindered selfishness and the almighty dollar. We protest against the political system that has sought the destruction of our people, our beliefs and our culture as well as its elimination from history.

Despite this, we still face the facts. The majority of this country, 120 million people, support either the Democratic or Republican parties. Is it because they believe these groups honestly fight for them and their welfare? No - it is because these two parties have become the only way for the average person to have any say in his government, however small. By backing one of these parties, he can at least assume one major issue important to him will be addressed, even if every other issue he is passionate about is ignored or, more commonly, pursued in a way that goes against his best interest. These two parties simply take turns ruling their "supporters" every four to eight years by splitting the important issues of the American people amongst themselves. This ensures that the population is always artificially divided with about half of the population voting Democratic and the other half Republican. Thus, it is guaranteed that one of these parties will always be in power. Whoever loses is of no concern to them - both parties drop in popularity significantly over the course of their time in office.<sup>4</sup> This is all the result of the people positive mention of homosexuality in the presence of children" was passed unanimously in Russia's parliament that same year.

<sup>4</sup> Presidents who were elected for a second term dropped, on average, 12% in popularity between their first and second terms. Additionally, 34% of elected Presidents have been Democrat, 39% Republican and 27% other - a near even split.

seeing over and over that the politicians care only about money and the few interest groups who give them millions each election. After four or eight years, the majority will then vote for the losing side, giving them their turn to fill their pockets and further sacrifice the American people. This cycle continues ad-infinitum until the people either cast off the sickly parasite or succumb to its ravenous thirst.

And so, where would we get the moral justification for going up against our greed-driven government if we did not seek to tear it down to its foundations - those necessary for the comfortable survival of the American people - and replace it with a new, Socialist structuring of American society?

Muscle and Intellect

So, who is to help you tear down the old system and build up the new?

For that, we rely on the healthy instincts of the American workers. The day will come when even the last of them will see the light. Someday, both muscle and intellect will rise up together in protest; and then it will be our turn to bring changes and to judge. We will do everything in our power to see to it that the time comes soon.

Then, the workers of muscle and intellect will find each other. Then it will become clear who truly loves his country, beyond party and social class. And then, the working youth of the future will build up the new United States of America.

That inexperienced youth will have a say? And wisdom and experience will go the way of dust in the wind?

Then we will take America's fate into our own hands. We will solve the problem that is today's sad state of affairs, radically and once and for all, unhampered by concerns for tradition, education, wealth, social class and the status-quo and taking into consideration only the future of the working American people!

Then, we will prove that nationalism is more than a comfortable moral theology of middle-class wealth and capitalist profit. The cesspool of corruption and depravity will then yield to new nationalism as a radical form of national self-defense, and to new Socialism as the most conscious creation of its requisite preconditions.

Despair of Capitalism

You speak of socialism as if it will cure all the ills of capitalism. What would socialism do but take from those who do more than their fair share of the work and give to those who do nothing and demand still to be clothed and fed? Does not socialism penalize those who work the hardest and reward those who fall below the average? Is not the American worker justified in despairing of socialism and the future of his well-being?

Never! Consider this:

1) In the past seventy years, he has supported capitalism which continues to tax the worker more and more in order to pay welfare to those who refuse to work. The government is now refusing to deport illegals, thus further straining the welfare system so that non-US citizens can claim their undeserved welfare check. Our government continues to use an ever increasing amount of tax payer dollars to support programs that the American people overwhelmingly disapprove of. America's "capitalism" is now but a tool for the super-rich to further engorge themselves while forcing a more and more Marxist-like political-economic system<sup>5</sup> upon the people. This "capitalist" Marxism, if you will, with its theories destructive of peoples and races, is the exact opposite of socialism.

2) Capitalism was never the American worker's ideal of the State. He accepted this jumble of Jewish ideas<sup>6</sup> only because there were no other choices open to him in the struggle for the freedom of his class.

3) Capitalism is the graveyard not only for national peoples but also particularly for the one class that fights whole-heartedly for its realization: the working class.

It is therefore not the workers right to give up on socialism, but rather, to give up on capitalism. The sooner he does so, the better for him. Capitalism's usefulness is at an end and its physical death is drawing ever closer.

<sup>5</sup> Under the Obama administration alone, the US has passed laws increasing the estate tax as well as the number and scope of regulations regarding national communication outlets. These laws relate to the abolition of inheritance and state control of communications and transportation, respectively; both of which are tenets laid out by Marx in his Communist Manifesto for the implementation of communism in capitalist societies.

<sup>6</sup> Capitalism is built around the principle of "return on investment". Usury, a decidedly Jewish invention, is the only way by which capitalism can achieve this.

Anti-Semitism

You make a big fuss about being opposed to the Jews. Isn't anti-Semitism a little passé in today's world? And aren't the Jews human beings too? Further, are they not also white? Isn't it a bad sign that we 300 million Americans would fear 3 million Jews?

Careful! Try to think logically:

1) If we were only anti-Semitic, then yes, that would indeed be passé. But, we are also Socialist; we cannot have one without the other. Socialism, that is, freedom of the American workers, and thus of the American nation, can only be achieved in opposition to the Jews. Therefore, because we want America's liberty and therefore socialism, we are anti-Semitic.<sup>7</sup>

2) Granted, Jews are human beings too - none of us have ever doubted that. However, by the same token, fleas are animals too - just not very agreeable ones. And since fleas are not very agreeable animals, we do not have a moral obligation to protect them and let them thrive so that they will bite and torment us. Rather, we must put them out of commission - the same goes for those international Jews who plunder nations giving no thought to the welfare of its people.

<sup>7</sup> An example illustrating the devastating consequences of Jewish control lies in the Rothschild's family- a Jewish family that owns the central banks of all but three countries in the world. This has allowed the Rothschilds to fund both sides of every war since the Napoleonic war, thus ensuring their financial gain, frequently at the expense and destruction of entire nations. To further strengthen their grasp on these nations, they own several news agencies (among them the Associated Press and the Reuter's News service) that allow them to strongly influence public opinion in all areas of interest to themselves while downplaying any opposition.

3) Certainly, there are also white Jews and there are more of them every day. But, that is no argument in their favor, but rather against them. The very fact that we call scoundrels among us Jews is proof that being a Jew is something inferior; otherwise, one would call the swindler a yellow Christian or, perhaps, a rotten Buddhist! That there are so many "white" Jews proves that the subversive Jewish spirit has already contaminated large numbers of our people.<sup>8</sup> It is just one more admonition for us to take up the fight against the global Jewish plague in every possible way.

4) It is not a bad sign for us, but rather for you that 300 million Americans would fear 3 million Jews. We don't fear the 3 million, we fight against them. You however, are too cowardly for this fight and only ever beat around the bush. If those 300 million Americans would fight as hard as we do, they would no longer need to fear them; it would be the Jew's turn to be afraid.

Dictatorship or Republic?

Now, you will have to come clean. Are you dictators or republicans?

Neither one or the other. This is because:

1) The question of an organizational structure of a state is a minor one today. A people wasting away under the forced destruction of their culture, nation and livelihood by their own government have more important things to worry about than that of dictatorship versus republic.

2) The people will be able to settle this question once and for all only when they have their liberty. However, in principle we say a good dictatorship is better than a bad democracy and a good democracy is better than a bad dictatorship. Both forms of government have their merit and disadvantages. Weighing them against each other is the concern of a people facing the rest of the world in liberty.

The Red, White and Blue or a Flag Anew?

Now, be honest: are you for the Red, White and Blue flag or do you have some new design in mind?

Our flag is a symbol of both the greatness of our country as well as the sacrifices that millions have made to defend it. It is a focus for national pride and links us with our heritage and those first patriots who fought to free this country from governmental tyranny so long ago. What it symbolizes has never changed and the cause for which it has been flown is still flown is sadly just as relevant today as it was nearly 250 years ago. Our nation is dying at the behest of a government that cares little for its people and if things continue as they are, our great nation will die under the shroud of those once proud colors.

If the American people gain the courage to rise up and fight for their nation, I believe our red, white and blue flag will be restored to the glory it found itself in when it was first conceived - the glory that was representing a whole and unified people that declared their will to be free and proud or die trying. But, if we allow this nation of ours to decay and die, a new symbol common to those who rise up from the ashes to restore this nation may take its place. Ultimately, whatever movement rallies the American people in defense of their home and future and achieves the national unity that we desire will decide what symbol unifies the people under a common cause. We are confident that we will be that movement but whether or not the American people will join us in time I cannot say.

Our Platform

Every party has a platform. What is yours? If you want to win the American people over to your side, what do you offer them?

If we were big shots or "politicians", we would spell out a long list of promises - Nothing is easier than that. Telling the truth is what's difficult and it is even more so to listen to and understand it. We tell it nevertheless, knowing that it alone shows the way to salvation.

Certainly, every party has its platform but no party has ever put its platform into effect. None could, nor will they, because all platforms set out to date have been unworkable. Our platform is concise: the liberty of the American people. The way to achieve it is clear and simple - the liberation of the American worker and his reintegration into the national framework.

We will do anything its takes to achieve this goal. We will not back away from social revolution if the liberty of the nation requires it. We do not fear to burst the chains imposed on this nation if that is what is needed to secure the necessities of life for the American work force.

We promise the American worker only this: that we will fight with him to the last breath for his rights, regardless of what this fight costs and what may come after. We offer the greatest good that anyone could conceivably offer a people and its repressed social class: The fight for freedom and well-being!

Our Demands

And what does the American worker have to do in return?

Nothing in the world is free, and so, the worker should bear in mind:

1) If he wants to be free, he must make sacrifices to this end. No one can make him free - he has to do it himself. And since freedom is the Ultimate, he must stake his utmost - life itself.

2) A goal always stands in direct proportion to the energy expended in attaining it. Only liars promise paradise in return for a party membership card.

And so, we say liberty is everything and for that reason, it demands everything from us. A long, bitter struggle filled with hardship and worry, arduousness and hunger, danger, and a constant sacrificing of health, pleasure, happiness and contentment. This is what the American people must provide. They must not waiver for at the end of it all, the best possible reward beckons - a free America that does not demand sacrifice of life, liberty and happiness by the many for the greed of the few.

The Middle Class

Aren't your opponents perhaps right when they say national socialism is just a petty movement of the far-right whose leadership consists of bigots, racists, neo-Nazis and those who can't obtain stable lives? How is a worker to believe that these could possibly liberate him? You won't be able to convince them that workers can only be liberated by these types.

That is a lot of nonsense, and all in one breath too! Listen:

1) National socialism is not a petty, far-right movement but rather, on the contrary. It is a protest against the widening gap between the rich and the poor that is championed as proof that our capitalist system is working just as it should. It is a protest against the destruction of the American culture and its morals and beliefs. It is the result of a unified people demanding an end to the spending of their hard-earned money on foreign peoples when so many of our own are suffering. It is a movement meant for a nation that believes the welfare of its own people should be of the highest priority for its government. A strong and healthy nation can only be so for as long as a strong and healthy people make it that way.

2) Name just one racist in our leadership! You see, my friend, if a racist, bigot, or outcast is at the head of any movement that opposes us, and I could name a hundred just like that - then he is a leader of his people, a champion of social justice. However, if he is at the head of national socialism, then he is a racist and a bigot

- a "failure" of society. No, our members are no more racist or bigoted than those like Al Sharpton and Jesse Jackson. When we call out unfairness, inequality or injustice to our race, we are labeled as racists and bigots. When the same thing is done by those mentioned above, we are told they are simply "defending their race". We only want what is best for our fellow people and, because we are white, we are branded as racists so that our arguments can be written off and ignored.

3) You ask how they could possibly liberate the workers? If your question is to be justified, then the workers will first of all have to rid our movement of all the false-flags and Jewish literati who call themselves leaders of their people and in actual fact misuse the movement for their own despicable aims. Then, they should look around them and take a good look at the "workers" who alone can bring about their liberation: Those like Frank Collin and, more recently, Hal Turner who were Jewish provocateurs and paid FBI informants.<sup>9</sup> Their struggle was never real and existed only as a false-flag to manipulate the American people into vilifying what the government saw as its biggest threat - a political party that put the nation and its people ahead of profit and foreign interests. Once they were discovered for who and what they truly were, they abandoned their so-called cause and disappeared, having done their damage.

<sup>9</sup> Frank Collin (real name Max Cohen) was the leader of the National Socialist Party of America that instigated the Skokie, Illinois "Nazi march" in the late 1970's. Shortly after this event, it was discovered that Frank was Jewish and used the marches to defame National Socialism and garner support for the Jewish victim mythos. He was removed from office in 1977 and later arrested for pedophilia.

Hal Turner owned a radio program that promoted white nationalism and often called for violence against judges and other political figures. In 2008, he was discovered to be an FBI informant that acted at their behest to portray white nationalism as a violent, extremist, right-wing phenomenon.

The true spearhead of the American workforce consists, besides American workers, also of seceders from the middle class - that type of renegade who has mentally overcome the middle class and who is driven in his struggle not by envy, but by hatred of a class who has brought America to the brink of disaster. The type of person who does not join the working class to gain personal advantages, but rather has found his way to the mainspring of the people's creative power out of a deep and responsible inner need.

He will join the American worker in a band of friendship. Intellect and muscle together will give rise to the miracle of the future - the rebirth of the American Nation!

Blue Collar and Working Class

So, if I understand you correctly, the National Socialist movement is a blue collar party under white collar leadership?

I see; you can only think in terms of concepts that seek to divide a people. The America that we want represents an over-coming of all these old, antiquated concepts. We are neither blue collar nor white collar. The concepts of being either-or are soon to die. We neither want that which is becoming a reality today in the form of a slave-labor middle-class world nor that of a world run by a wealthy elite.

We want an America of the working class. What does that mean? It means that we want an America in which work and achievement are the highest moral and political standards. That is why we are a worker's party in the truest sense of the term. Once we have gained the power of the government, America will be a nation of labor of the mind and body, a working-class state.

Those are grand words for sure but tell me, what is behind them? Or rather, do you intend to use empty phrases to gloss over unthought-out half-ideas?

Not at all my friend; don't misunderstand me. The America of the future will be reorganized to its very foundations. It is wrong to believe that the middle class could affect this rearrangement, considering that it is at the same time the pillar of the nation against which this rearrangement will be directed, namely the middle-class Americans of today. That of course does not mean that members of the middle class cannot help build the new America. But, the historical role of the middle class is at an end and will have to yield to the creative force of a younger, healthier class. It will be replaced by the younger class of - we don't say "laborer" as that has arguably become a slander on the American workers - the working class. This working class includes everyone that works for America and towards her future: muscle and intellect.

Muscle will be guided by intellect and intellect will ensure the consistent support lent to it by the creative power of force in order to build up this new American Nation. This inter-reliance of intellect and muscle will fundamentally unite the workers of both sides. However, for as long as the American worker's leadership is made up of those who work only for their own greed, both sides of this struggle will continue to be misrepresented. Thus, this artificially instilled animosity will ensure they never unite and begin working toward a better America.

American intellect presiding over American muscle results in the only maxim leading to freedom: American workers of muscle and intellect - unite!

International and National

In other words, you want to counter the internationalism of our current capitalist system with the nationalism of American socialism?

Exactly! Finally we have begun to understand each other!

You must grant me this one question: if you've recognized that the enemy - whether we call him the capitalist, internationalist, the corporations or whatever - thinks and feels internationally, then surely he can't be combated in any but an international way. Will the result of such a fight be the internationalization of socialism, which shatters once and for all the internationalism of capitalism?

I can see friend: I can talk until I am blue in the face, and it is all to the same end - we just cannot come clear with one another. Try to think logically:

Of course we have recognized clearly that the enemy has taken up international residence on the back of both America and Europe. There are barely any kinds of national capital left in America. The railways, mines, factories, gold, money, the national bank - everything has been converted to "stock" and this useless paper lies safe in international banks like those in New York City. But, these papers in and of themselves are worthless - they don't roll on railway tracks, yield coal or oil, nor do they produce any kind of food or other goods - they don't maintain value. They only serve to be manipulated by the thieves who run Wall Street so they can skim off the interest. If we had a real American Nation, it would declare all US stocks stashed in international banks null and void and treat them as the scraps of paper that they are. In their place, we would proclaim a monetary system of national labor in America. But, since we do not have such a system, we must continue to put up with usury and the unnecessary debt slavery that accommodates it.

National capital and national wealth, that is, wealth and capital belonging to the people and the nation, does not exist; instead, everything is under the management of an international syndicate of banks. National capital does not work for us on the international scene, but rather, the hyenas of international finance use it to work internationally.

2) The fight against this world power does of course have to be fought internationally, and it would indeed be very short-sighted of us if we were not to support, in all countries, each and every movement which fights on the same front as us. But the goal of this fight is never, by no means, a World Republic of Socialism - there has never been such a thing and there never will. Such a thing exists only in the minds of those who deny the differences of the world's various peoples and those who ignore reality in favor of idealism. The true goal is the establishment of new nationalistic socialist states. We also place little or no stock in a united international struggle of nations against that of international finance.

There are far too many barriers to such international communication and cooperation at this time. In addition to that, international capitalism would not be so foolish as to enslave all the people and nations in the same way at the same time. It all happens step by step and one by one so that no nation thinks to equate its situation with that of another nation. Each believes that it can still save itself by means of compliance and relenting until it is too late for that nation too and it has been swallowed up by the Moloch of capitalism.

And further my friend, we don't have time to wait for all the others. We are on the brink of our last, final collapse and in this situation, it is nothing short of a crime to count on the help of others who have hardly helped us in the past and are not likely to do so in the future. What counts for us is the maxim God helps those who help themselves!

3) If you keep talking about an international form of socialism, you only prove that you have failed to even understand even the most basic natural foundations of a nation and its people. No great conception of a nation - and socialism certainly is one - has ever lead to an international government. The guiding principle of history is not blending, but diversity and difference. That has always been so, and always will be. Fighting is what shapes people and nations, and everyone who refuses to fight is doomed.

You may say "that is terrible", but that is the way it is. We have come to terms with it and as such, we fight. History is shaped by the eternal laws of nature, not by placatory, feel-good, politically correct phrases.

Nature loves diversity, not uniformity. It does not want a homogenous porridge of mankind - it wants a mankind composed of many different peoples and races, among which the strongest will ever hold its own over the weak.

We have recognized this fact and are willing to act accordingly in order to help our American nation forge the weapons it needs in the struggle of existence on this Earth. We do this so that our nation can assert itself in this world of struggle and triumph of the stronger over the weaker. That is what we call being nationalistic!

Production and Nationalization

That is all well and good, but all this has only been talk. Now, the pivotal point: how do you envision the solution to the social problem?

To get to the bottom of this question: what is the nature of the social problem? 100 million workers are either unemployed or under-employed. All of them are unconditionally at the mercy of capitalism which has complete control over all the methods of production. Thus, they are forced to sell their own, their only capital - their power of work - at the lowest possible price. This problem is further compounded by all the illegals - that the government wants to legalize, by the way<sup>10</sup> - who work for an amount that the average American simply <sup>10</sup> In 2014, President Obama stated that he would take unilateral action to "give illegals some path to become legal citizens". This created much public outcry as it was seen as a refusal to enforce US immigration law and reward those who ignore it with US citizenship. Additionally, many agree that legalizing four million illegals would further strain the social security system which is already near its breaking point.

cannot compete with. These wages do not allow the average person to have a comfortable life which, for an American living in their own country, is unacceptable. For these reasons, the American people rightly feel cast out from a society which silently tolerates the situation. Under such conditions, the security of the people breaks down and they become divided into two factions - one which wants to see this state protected, and one which wants to go up against it. Through such internal division, the nation is eliminated as power of consequence in the grand scale of history.

The solution to the social problem is therefore nothing more nor less than the social reintegration of a part of the population. This entails its decisive involvement in all matters of political and economic importance, and, in this way, the reintegration of our nation into the grand course of history.

Towards this end, we demand:

1) Everything that nature has given the people: land, rivers, mountains, forests, natural resources both above and below the ground, the air - all this in principle belongs to the people as a whole. If anyone owns these, he is, in effect a trustee of the people's property and must consider himself accountable to the State and the nation. If he manages the possessions entrusted to him poorly or in a manner detrimental to the good of the whole, then the State has the right to terminate his ownership and to give his possessions back to the people as a whole.

2) As far as human strength, talent, inventiveness, enterprise and ingenuity are concerned, production remains the province of the individual. The government guarantees that every productive person, whether his means of output be muscle or intellect, is given the largest possible share in the goods and profits arising from production.

3) Finished goods, which are essentially complete and thus require no further strength, talent, inventiveness, enterprise or ingenuity - things such as transportation, communication, trusts and syndicates - are returned to the State.

With this, the sequence of production comes full circle and once again incorporates each and every worker responsibly into its cycle. By putting this system into effect, we free productivity from the shackles of wage slavery. The result will be a free people with a free economy, in a free country: the national community.

Congress and Political Parties

And all of that requires a new party? Why didn't you just take this platform so some existing congressional party? Surely one would have been willing to support it!

Ha! - You might be right. Certainly any political party would have supported it, if it could have gained a million votes that way. Unfortunately for them, we don't have much faith in votes and Congress. We don't want to just "support" our platform in Congress - we want to put it into effect. That is where we are different from all other parties. The others advocate platforms, talk, debate, take a vote, and collect their hefty paychecks. We, on the other hand, want to turn our platform into reality.

We don't believe the nonsense of Congress and parties. That is all just a millionaire's club that exists for big businesses to lobby in so that they can exploit the strength and labor of the American people.

Public funds and public welfare are misused. Behind it all are the unfathomably rich international parasites who move their chessmen, have them talk, vote and collect paychecks they do nothing to earn, all the while they hold the reins of government - not the American people!

If they want anything from us, then we are the "the free and sovereign people, making our will known through our elected representatives"; but if we want anything from our Congress, then we are just rabble. The sum of it all is what's called democracy.

So no, friend. We have never expected to gain anything that way nor will we ever place our hopes on congressional action. On the contrary - we long for the day when the American people will shake off this un-American system.

Dictatorship and the Corporate State

And then? What do you expect to replace that system with? There has to be some form of government! If you don't want Congress, you have to come up with something better. What will it be?

It is a long established fact of history that any young, purposeful party which has deposed a corrupt, internally rotten system has claimed the government and its instruments of power as its own. It did so for such a time as it took to establish, by means of a dictatorship, guided by self-confident responsibility, the preconditions that were requisite for the complete conquest of the State and its infusion with the new ideas.

It will be no different in our case.

Once we have captured the nation, that nation is ours. We and we alone will be its responsible representatives. Even if today, in the battle against a corrupt system, we are and must be a party - not of course, in the sense of a congressional party - the second in which that system collapses, we will be the government. Then, we will immediately set to work remodeling that government according to our own principles.

We want to liberate America, that is all. Sadly, a large part of the American people have already become so materialistic, cowardly, and - how should I say - spiritually drained, that what is good and in their best interest can only be achieved against their will.

That's all well and good but even you have to admit that a dictatorship can't be a permanent state of affairs. Something has to come after!

Of course something does! We have considered that too, and made our intentions known: by no means do we want to exclude the people from power. We only want to achieve and consolidate those conditions which alone will allow our people to ensure their continued existence on this planet. Once those conditions are achieved and consolidated, our work is done. Then we will have the national socialist nation that we want

The current congressional party system that we have will be replaced by the economic parliament of the new national socialist government. Its members will be elected by the entire American people in accordance with the principles of universal suffrage. However, in such an election, the people will not stratify themselves according to congressional-democratic parties, but rather according to the professional guilds making up the national community. Thoroughly organized professional guilds ensure that every working American receives the rights to which he is entitled by virtue of his will, his work and his responsibility within the state. The economic parliament looks after economic policy only - not the politics of the nation.

Its partner in government is the Senate. It is composed of some 200 individuals whom the dictator selects from all ranks and professional guilds who assist in the affairs of the nation. These approximately 200 will represent the elite of the entire nation and not in wealth, but rather merit and virtue. They support the government with both advice and action and are appointed for life. In the case of a member's death, the other's elect a replacement.

The Chancellor will then be elected from the Senate. He bears full responsibility for every aspect of the nation's domestic and foreign politics and is prepared to sacrifice even his life, if necessary, for the sake of these political affairs. The Chancellor chooses his own ministers and staff. He takes full responsibility for their actions as well and, it therefore goes without saying, he can appoint and dismiss them at will.

Whether the head of this system of government is a president or a dictator will then be irrelevant. The Chancellor is the one who matters and you can be sure that we'll see to it that he is a man of courage and integrity; the likes of which this country hasn't seen in a long, long time.

War and Pacifism

You are your kind are always trouble-makers! You don't want peace and order, you want conflict. War will be the last pearl of your wisdom!

You talk of peace, but I ask - is what we are given today peace? Is it?!? Is it peace when millions are either out in the street, out of work, or without food? Is it peace when young children have to go hungry, when so many of our people work themselves to the bone only to die worn out and tired, having nothing to leave their children, nothing to say I accomplished that? Peace is not being forced to watch your morals, culture and fellow people decay around you and watch your once great and thriving nation slowly rot away from all the corruption that both fills and is continually pumped into it.

What we have faced since the end of WWII has been pointless war after pointless war by a government that cares more about "helping" foreign countries than it does its own people! We have had forced mass immigration in order that our cultural heritage might be destroyed so that our puppet masters can have the slave labor force they so desperately want! Drug use is nothing short of an epidemic and drug wars from Mexico are now spilling over our borders. On top of all of this, tiny asocial counter-cultures such as homosexuality, feminism and marijuana supporters are being legalized, encouraged and pushed onto us despite the majority of Americans being disgusted at such things.<sup>11</sup> They try to keep this smut from reaching their children but modern media ensures that this is a hopeless endeavor. Unemployment is rising despite our government's constant claims to the contrary and young people have no pride in their country and a bleak outlook towards their future.

That is your peace! It is a peace only to be found in a graveyard. Your order is the rigid order of death. No indeed, good friend, we do not want that. We will call to arms in opposition to it. We will call upon the people to rid themselves of their tormentors and to break the chains that our government is finding endless ways to put on us. Only the fight for true peace can lead beyond the death of a people and their nation. The eternal principle of nature is not justice, it is strength. That is why we want to toughen our nation, so that it may survive that battle of life.

Pacifism does not ensure peace - on the contrary! History shows us that these peoples and nations that were no longer ready or willing to defend their existence, with force if necessary, have always come to

Similarly, a Langer Research Study found that 65% of Republicans reacted in a "strongly unfavorable" manner while only 52% of Democrats reacted in "strongly favorable" manner when Obama announced his support for gay marriage. Despite the public disapproval of gay marriage, the media continues to push the pro-gay agenda upon the public. The proof - a 2011 Gallup poll found that the average American believes gays make up 25% of the population when in actuality they account for only 1.6%.

Regarding marijuana use, a poll conducted by the Harvard IOP found that only 44% of those between 18 and 29 years of age at least "somewhat support" legalizing marijuana. That same poll found that if marijuana use was legalized, 86% would still "definitely not" or "probably not" use it.

a humiliating end. We will protect our people from that fate. They shall grow strong in will and spirit; they shall not be humiliated like a pariah among nations.

We want our rights, and those rights are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness! We want to keep our heritage, have bread on our table and a nation for us, our children, and our children's children to call home! If we are denied these rights, we will fight for them.

This fight for life, liberty, happiness and our nation is everyone's business; the highest citizen as well as the lowliest. It is a matter for the entire nation. The united power of 300 million Americans determined to survive will go a longer way towards ensuring peace than any lie about human rights.

America's Freedom

And what will be the end result of all this?

The end result will be the freedom of the American people on American soil. This freedom will ensure a life, and a good one at that, for every working American. It bears within itself those moral and spiritual strengths with which we will shape this new century. We want to achieve more by means of this freedom than just a new system. We want to achieve the new man who, within the conditions of the better world view that we will have attained, can progress into the future. This future will be ours, or it will not be at all.

Liberalism will die so that socialism may live. Capitalism and Marxism will die so that nationalism may live. Then, we shall shape the new America - the national socialist United States of America!
